In Memoriam

It is possible that the measure of a man's life lies in what he leaves behind.
Thoughts and feelings of friends, bitter, at first asking why,
but bittersweet with the passage of time.
Accepting that the universe moves in strange ways, scarcely comprehensible to man.
Yet the experiences of every man reveal that much more of his nature.
By this scale these lives were rich indeed for they remain a part of us still . . . a smile, a shadow.
Ended? Perhaps only begun.

"A Place in the Sun"

Friday evening, May 15, 1970 found a good portion of the Senior Class at the King Philip Ballroom in Wrentham, for the Senior Prom. Guests of honor included members of both administration and faculty. Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. Arthur Clark and Mr. and Mrs. J. Chester Webb.

Sherryl Young reigned as a gracious and lovely Queen for the event. Her escort Paul Ciccolo had just reason to be proud. Sherryl was attended by Shauna Gallagher, Kathleen Hill, Thelma Martin and Vivian Ukraine.

Just one in the series of Senior events, this one might best be remembered for its theme:

"Like a branch on a tree, I keep reaching to be free
Moving on, moving on . . .
There's a place in the sun and before my life is done Gonna find me that place in the sun."

class day and graduation

Class Day

It was not particularly distinguished weatherwise. The air was cool, with the freshness of morning, a light breeze stirred in the tree tops. It was hot . . . Mrs. Czarnowski coaxed and cajoled reluctant almost-graduates into alphabetical order. It was Monday, rehearsal; graduation wasn't until Wednesday. Class bells rang . . . F block - G? The future beckons: will it at least be free of bells?

Class day attendance optional. It had grown hot . . . some chose the beach instead.

The air was muggy in the corridors behind the art rooms.

Smiles rested on the faces of strangers in white gloves or shirts and ties . . . formal smiles . . . "Pomp and Circumstance".

The carpet in the auditorium is thick, rich. It is cooler there—Ann Bourgeous is elected Queen. She smiled . . . it seemed fitting for a queen. Her roses a deep red . . . she wears a tiara . . .

We are together . . . seniors . . . We laugh together but there is an uneasiness, a feeling that the present moment has already passed. Ceremonies end . . . A few linger . . . then there is only silence . . .

Graduation

It was hot on the pavement . . . this is how a life-style ends, with Pomp and Circumstance and maroon and white gowns.

There is little conversation . . . one is over-awed by the formality, the solemnity of the occasion.

Clustered in groups of two and three, the graduates awaited a signal . . . One is confused by the enormous crowd of people. They seem alien . . . Could they have been the ones passed in the corridors during lunches or at 2:30?

The grass was wet with evening dew . . . the playing-field transformed . . . how often had each person come running over this same hill in gym-suit and sneakers?

The traditional exercises began 5:30 P.M. . . . we live in an age in which tradition is constantly being challenged . . . we seek for something to believe, to hold on to.

The commencement address was given by Thomas J. Murphy, managing editor, The News Tribune . . .

Commencement addresses usually deal with the challenge of the future; this challenge has special significance for the class of 1970, because The Seventies—A Dynamic Decade has to be more than a catchy-phrase—If the members of the graduating classes of 1970 are not able to meet the challenges of the seventies—among them: pollution, political turmoil, both foreign and domestic, and over-population, then the future will indeed be dim.

Scholarship and prize recipients were divided into three groups and presented their awards by Mr. Husson. Walking off the stage, holding their envelopes, there is something in the eyes and the way they carry themselves that indicates pride in their accomplishment. They have worked hard and are pleased with the reward.

There was pride also in the faces of the graduates as they received their diplomas.

The sun had set as the final strains of the recessional sounded . . . the gowns are returned, perhaps with the sincere wish that others may wear them on occasions such as this with the dignity and respect for tradition which we, the class of 1970, hoped to demonstrate.

beginnings

life song is beginning . . . .
dreaming
slowly watching porcelain dreams breaking while the stronger dreams become a reality beginning to back each sky castle with a bit of invisible tape and wondrously finding that you yourself are the magic making the dreams come true.
a metamorphasized child-adult, wondering if you too could be a dream's illusion life song is . . . .

choices
changing polluted rivers polluted air polluted minds
the future is no longer a newspaper frustration society is you now.
you've watched the dragons long enough with your satisfied eyes to slay them or to collar them or to treat them as joyous equals.
it's time to act.

life song is . . . .
awakening to the youness of a still changing you and beginning to give of yourself free of a tangle of "ifs" awaken to the wonderment inside your own head awaken to killing the parrot in your thoughts and words, and listen to your mind awaken to the majic awaken to being reality can be beautiful awaken . . . .
and begin . . . .

Class of 1971

The Junior class found themselves in the awkward position of being just as lost as the sophomores when school finally opened in September, but as soon as they could find their way to the Junior lounge, plans were under way for a mammoth bake sale at Grover Cronin's. The returns from the sale funded the Junior Prom which was planned by and attended by most of the class. The class officers, who were active in the Student-Faculty Senate along with other duties, received a high degree of cooperation from their classmates.

Paul Parisi demonstrated the potential for leadership to be found among the juniors in his capacity as Vice President of the State Convention of Student Councils.

They have shown an interest in the affairs of the community, as well as the school. As seniors, they will undoubtedly do much to strengthen the ties between the school and community.

Class of 1972

Students from Kennedy, North, and South suddenly find themselves part of one enormous Sophomore class. Confusing phrases are thrust at them . . . housemaster's office . . . gym . . . first floor lecture hall . . . and there's no one to offer directions. Seniors could hardly be addressed by lowly sophomores, and juniors have a tendency to remain straight-faced while giving directions quite the opposite of one's destination. Yet, after sharing "showers" and first semester report cards and third lunch, you really begin to feel like part of the sophomore class . . . then it's June . . . and you begin wondering about the Junior Prom . . .

Drama Club

The Drama Club continues to be one of the largest and most active extra-curricular organizations at Waltham High. For the first time in many years, meetings were held in a theatre setting, and members had an opportunity to see and work with authentic stage machinery.

The major production for the year was John Patrick's Pulitzer Prize comedy The Teahouse of the August Moon. Prominent among the Class of 1970 players was Philip Hammond as a captivating Sakini.

Crawling Arnold by Jules Feiffer was this year's entry in the Massachusetts High School Drama Festival. Directed by Mrs. Carole Bowman the five-member cast went all the way to the New England finals in Rumford, Maine, another first in the history of Waltham High.

In March of this year Waltham High was honored by being admitted into membership of the International Thespian Society, an organization dedicated to the advancement of dramatics at the secondary school level.

History Club

This year the History Club, a chapter of the Junior World Affairs Council, ran and participated in numerous activities. These included a debate between the Mayoralty candidates in September and lectures by Mr. Ross Bailey of New Zealand, Miss Barbara Ash on South Africa, and Parker Richards on the John Birch Society. In February the History Club sponsored a Model United Nations in which a number of high schools from this area participated. The Model U.N. was highlighted by the lectures and debate on the South African situation conducted by two experts from Brandeis University. In March two delegations from the History Club attended a Model United Nation held at Brandeis University. Later in the year the History Club and G.A.P. co-operated in planning and running the Litter Drive, Pollution Photo Contest, and the other programs of the Ecology group.

Before you accept that first job . . .

Look over your employer as carefully as he does you

What's the Company like anyway? Would I be proud to work there? Reputation for square dealing with employees? Pleasant surroundings?

Will I be working with others my own age? Are they friendly? Do they socialize after hours?

Will the boss be reasonable? Appreciate good, hard work, but won't explode if I make a mistake?

Will I make a decent week's pay? Have a chance for raises, advancement, more responsibility? How about fringe benefits?

Is the work challenging? I had what it takes to get through high school. Will they give me a chance to use my brains?

Note: Many young men and women in this area can answer "Yes" to these questions. They work for New England Telephone.

Why not talk with our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate? Ask your Guidance Counselor to tell you when and where to apply.

CLASS OF '70

Best wishes Class of '70,
On your graduation day;
You're standing at life's crossroads,
Now you must choose the way.

The future lies before you,
The decision's yours to make;
Only you can make the choice,
Which road will you take?

The world needs people, such as you,
With courage and ideals;
It needs your skill and knowledge,
It needs your youth and zeal.

The first class that will graduate,
From a brand new school;
You will set the precedent;
You will set the rule.

Best wishes Class of '70,
On your graduation day;
We place our future in your hands,
The world is yours, today.

From learning laboratories to lunar missions... Raytheon makes things happen.

A high school student dials a lesson and learns at his own pace . . . A housewife prepares a meal in minutes in her microwave oven . . . A submarine listens for intruders in the deep . . . A seismograph crew explores for oil beneath an African desert.

A radar scans the skies and a supersonic missile stands ready if needed . . . A new petrochemical plant takes form against a Louisiana sky . . . A phone conversation is carried by microwaves across the Andes to a remote area of Ecuador . . . A tiny computer guides an Apollo spacecraft from orbit to on-target splashdown.

These are but a few of the results of Raytheon technology at work around the world.

Today, Raytheon is an international science-based company employing over 50,000 people. Common threads of technology run through and weave together the company's diverse and growing businesses in both government and commercial markets.

At Raytheon, our future is both exciting and challenging. We hope that your future holds a full measure of excitement and challenge too. Perhaps you will find it with us.
